7.7 The Parties acknowledge that they are entitled to a trial in the dissolution of their marriage. The Parties further acknowledge that they have decided to resolve all of the pending issues in their dissolution of marriage action by agreement, even though they understand that if the issues were tried, the outcome could be substantially different. The Parties acknowledge that they have been informed that either of them could be awarded, or be ordered to pay maintenance, the values of property could be found by the Court to be more or less, and the division/distribution of property and debts could be different and more or less to one party, if this matter were tried and decided by the Court. By execution of this document, the Parties expressly represent their desire to resolve this matter by agreement and waive their right to trial.

7.8 Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the rights, claims and interests (collectively referred to in this paragraph as "rights") of either party as beneficiary or surviving spouse in and to any type or form of contract or policy of insurance on the life of the other party (except as set forth herein) or retirement plan, whether employment related or otherwise, qualified or unqualified, are hereby divested and terminated, and each party waives, releases and relinquishes such rights. Each party agrees to formalize such waiver, release and relinquishment by executing any written waiver and/or consent that may be requested in order to effectuate the terms of this paragraph.

7.9 The validity and construction of this Agreement shall be determined in accordance with the laws of the State of Missouri.

8. Types of Decisions

The three types of decisions that parents must make concerning their children are major decisions, daily or everyday decisions, and emergency decisions.

Major Decisions - Major decisions are the significant decisions about the children. Major decisions are made by the parent or parents with legal custody. The following are examples of major decisions: the choice or change of schools, including college or special tutoring; choice or change of physician, surgeon or dentist; religious instruction, training or education; selection of child care providers; major medical care, surgery, or any medical procedure requiring hospitalization or out-patient surgery; major dental work and orthodontia; psychological or psychiatric treatment or counseling; the choice or change of camps or other special or extracurricular activities; the extent of any travel away from home; part or full-time employment; purchase or operation of a motor vehicle; contraception and sex education; actual or potential litigation on behalf of the children.

Daily or Everyday Decisions - Daily or everyday decisions are routine decisions like minor medical treatment, bedtimes, homework, chores, selection of clothing and normal daily activities.

Daily decisions shall be made by the parent having actual physical custody at the time of the decision. The parents shall cooperate in establishing mutually agreeable policies regarding such decisions in order that routine decisions remain as consistent as possible.

Emergency Decisions - Emergency decisions are decisions of an urgent nature. They affect the health and safety of the children and have to be made before it is possible to contact the other parent.

The parent who is with the minor child requiring emergency care may make the emergency decision. The parent making the emergency decision shall advise the other parent of the nature and extent of the emergency as soon as possible.

It is in the best interests of the children that Mother and Father have joint legal custody of the children. Major decisions shall be made by Mother and Father jointly. 10. Residential Schedules

Mother and Father shall have physical custody of the children as they agree. In the event they do not agree, then Mother and Father shall exchange the children as set forth in the attached residential schedules.

Because the children need a continuing relationship with both parents, each parent shall consider reasonable changes when requested by the other parent or the children. If a significant change is made, either parent may reduce their agreement to writing. All changes are unenforceable unless in writing and signed by both parents.

11. Notification of Change from Residential Schedule

Your obligation to provide this information to each party continues as long as you or any other party by virtue of this order is entitled to custody of a child covered by this order. Your failure to obey the order of this court regarding the proposed relocation may result in further litigation to enforce such order, including contempt of court. In addition, your failure to notify a party of a relocation of the child may be considered in a proceeding to modify custody or visitation with the child. Reasonable costs and attorney fees may be assessed against you if you fail to give the required notice."

16. Dispute Resolution Procedure

If the parties do not agree on the interpretation of this Parenting Plan, they shall submit the dispute to a mediator chosen by them for non-binding mediation. In the event they are not able to agree on a mediator they shall each select a mediator from the list of approved mediators maintained by the St. Louis County Family Court and the two mediators shall determine who shall mediate the case. The parents are to make a good faith effort to resolve their disagreement. Additional dispute resolution procedures are as follows:

17. Additional Provisions Pertaining to Custody of the Children

In the event of noncompliance with this order, the aggrieved party may file a verified motion for contempt. If custody, visitation or third-party custody is denied or interfered with by a parent or third party without good cause, the aggrieved person may file a family access motion with the court stating the specific facts that constitute a violation of the custody provisions of the judgment of dissolution, legal separation, or judgment of paternity. The circuit clerk will provide the aggrieved party with an explanation of the procedures for filing a family access motion and a simple form for use in filing the family access motion. A family access motion does not require the assistance of legal counsel to prepare and file.

☒ Additional provisions pertaining to the custody of the children are on the attached addendum(s) to parenting plan marked as exhibit: See Addendum.

For the parties to make a major decision, as defined in Paragraph 8 of this Parenting Plan Part A, the party who wishes to make the decision shall text the other party and the other party has 48 hours to respond. If circumstances require less time before the decision is made, it shall be sent via text message as soon as practical, and the other party shall have 24 hours to respond. The urgency shall be addressed with the parent by way of text message. If/when the other party responds, he/she cannot simply respond with a "no," he/she must give a reason. When someone is asking for a legal custody decision, he/she must state what he/she wants and why.

If the other parent responds with a negative response and reasons, the other parent shall then respond with why he/she agrees or disagrees with the reasons, and then the decision shall be made. If the parties are still at a deadlock, the following shall apply:

1. If it is a medical decision, the parties shall defer to what the medical provider recommends.

2. If it is an educational decision and the parents cannot agree, then they shall defer to the educator.

3. If it is any other decision, the parties shall mediate per Paragraph 16 of this Parenting Plan Part A.

Unless one of the following two boxes is checked, all reasonable and necessary medical and dental expenses of the children not covered by insurance are to be paid equally by the parents.

The parents may agree in writing to alternative arrangements as to providers and apportionment of uncovered expenses.

☐ Uncovered medical and dental expenses are not divided between the parents pursuant to RSMo. §454.603.

7. Payment of Work-Related Child Care Costs

☒ The current reasonable work-related child care costs of the children paid by Mother directly to the child care provider are $1,750 per month. Mother and Father shall divide the expense for this childcare equally.

Mother and Father agree there are times the minor children are sick, but Mother is still required to work. Mother shall notify Father as soon as practical that childcare is needed. Mother and Father shall divide the expense of this childcare equally.
