ADULT COURT SERVICES AT A GLANCE

- Adult Court Services was established as result of a jail overcrowding problem.
- The development of ACS is the result of changing needs of the court.
- ACS investigates and supervises alternatives to incarceration.

The department of Adult Court Services can be divided into two categories: Pretrial and Commit. Within those two categories officers can be assigned Investigative Reports or Supervision Programs.

Pretrial - Reports	Commit - Reports
Public Safety Assessment (P.S.A)	Home Detention Eligibility
Pretrial Home Detention Eligibility
Pretrial - Supervision	Commit - Supervision
Bond Supervision	ACS Supervised Probation
Home Detention Monitoring	Community Service Work
	Home Detention Monitoring

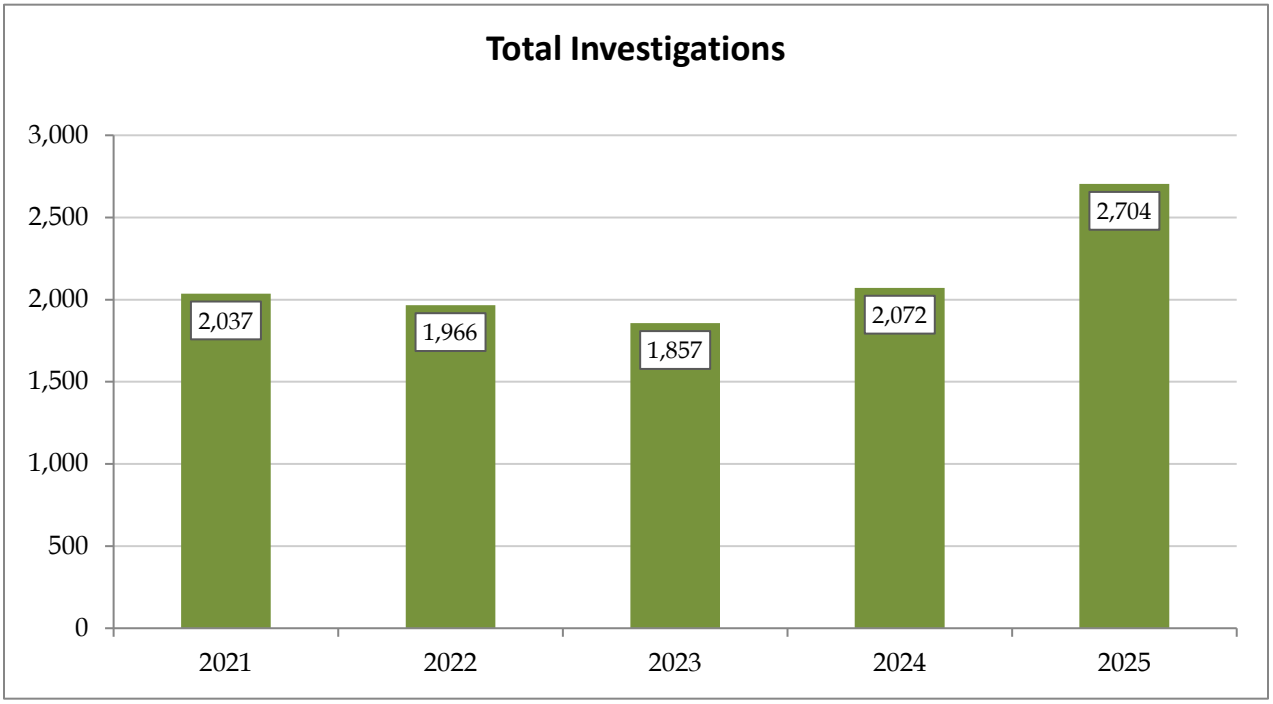

Administrative Assistant

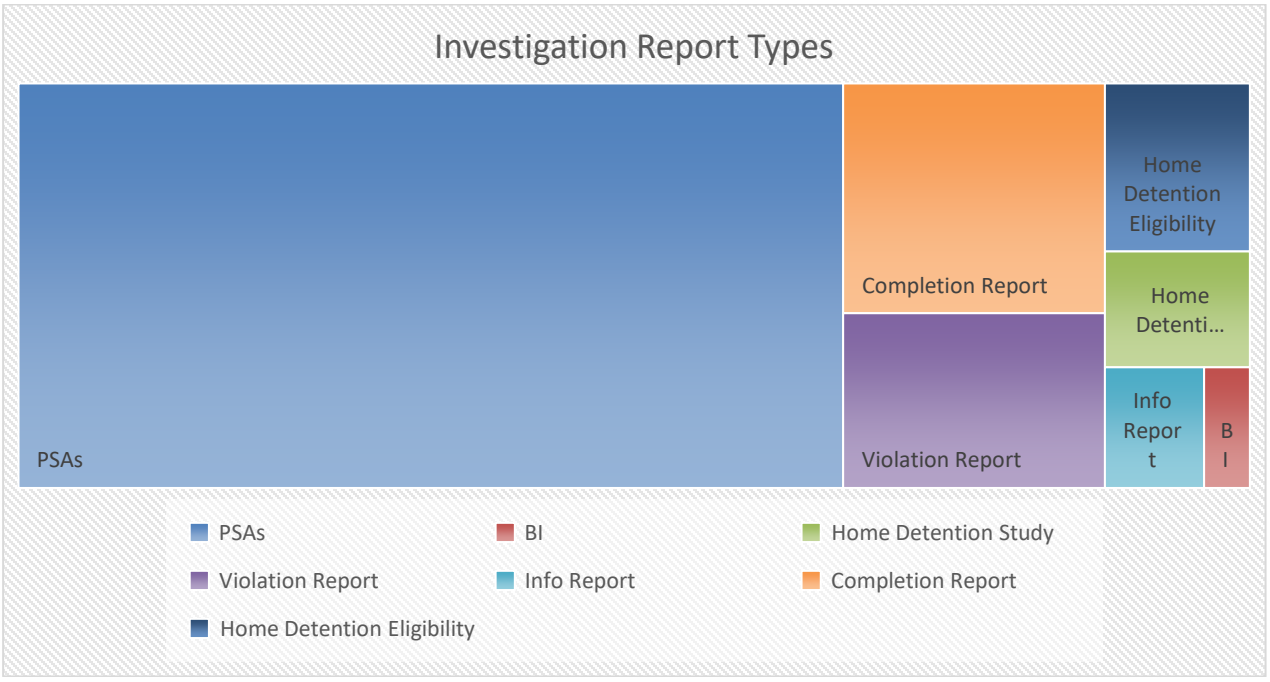

The administrative assistant in Adult Court Services is responsible for all electronic communication with the court, including efiling documents from officers. The administrative assistant is a liaison between this office and defendants, their families, attorneys, other court offices, the public, and law enforcement. This person provides information to the afore mentioned individuals on ACS program information and court ordered reports.

Adult Court Services Officers

The above Reports and Supervision are divided between the four officers. Generally speaking, one officer is assigned pretrial and commit home detention supervision, one officer is assigned ACS Supervised Probation, and two officers are assigned Bond Investigations and Bond Supervision. Duties of Adult Court Services Officer rotate once or twice a year as each area of reports and supervision has its own unique challenges and responsibilities. This also ensures cross training on all programs so that each officer is knowledgeable of each.

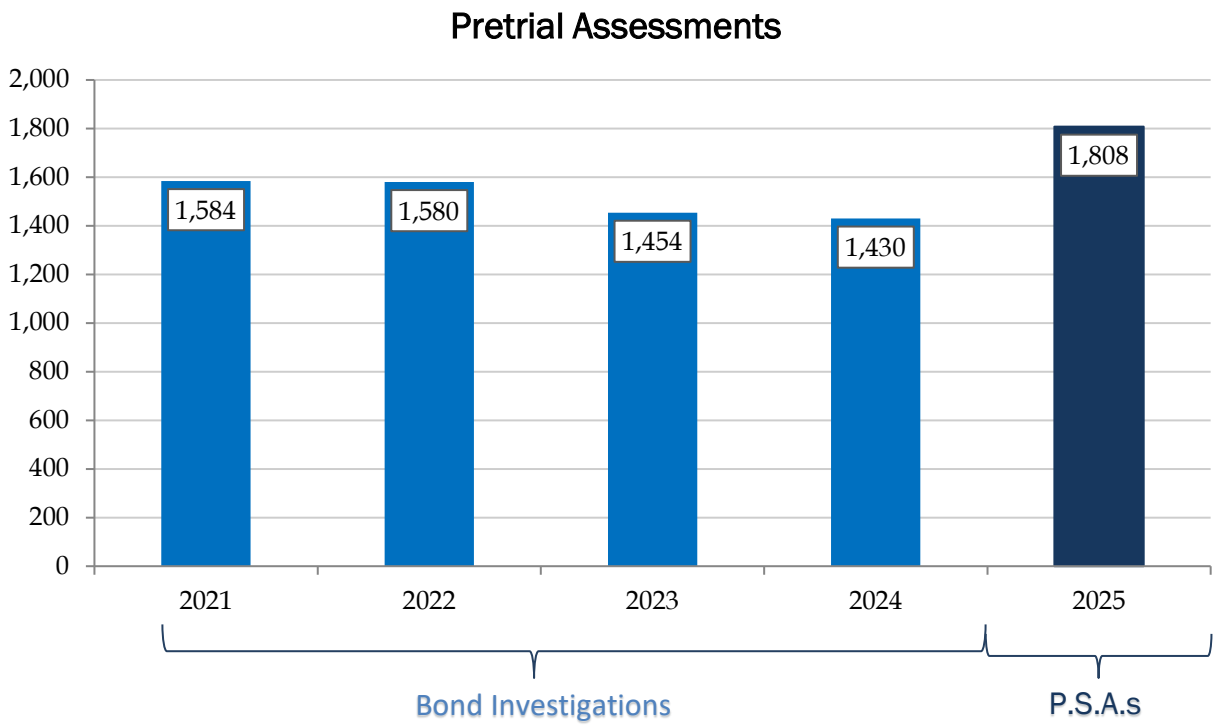

ADULT COURT SERVICES INVESTIGATIONS

Public Safety Assessment (P.S.A)

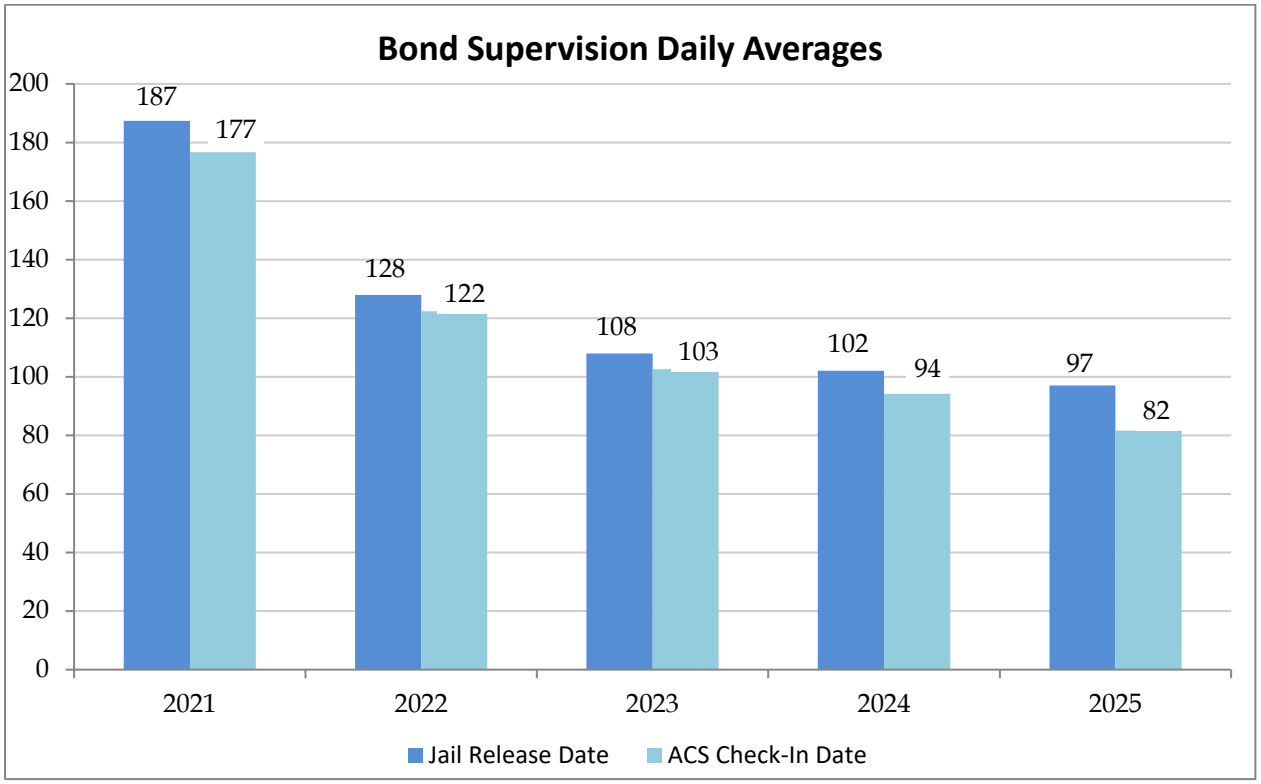

January 1, 2025 Boone County Court transitioned from the outdated bond investigation report to the Public Safety Assessment. Unlike bond investigations PSAs are not ordered by the Court. Defendants in custody for a pretrial warrant are eligible for a PSA. These reports are submitted before or shortly after a defendant's first appearance.

BOND SUPERVISION

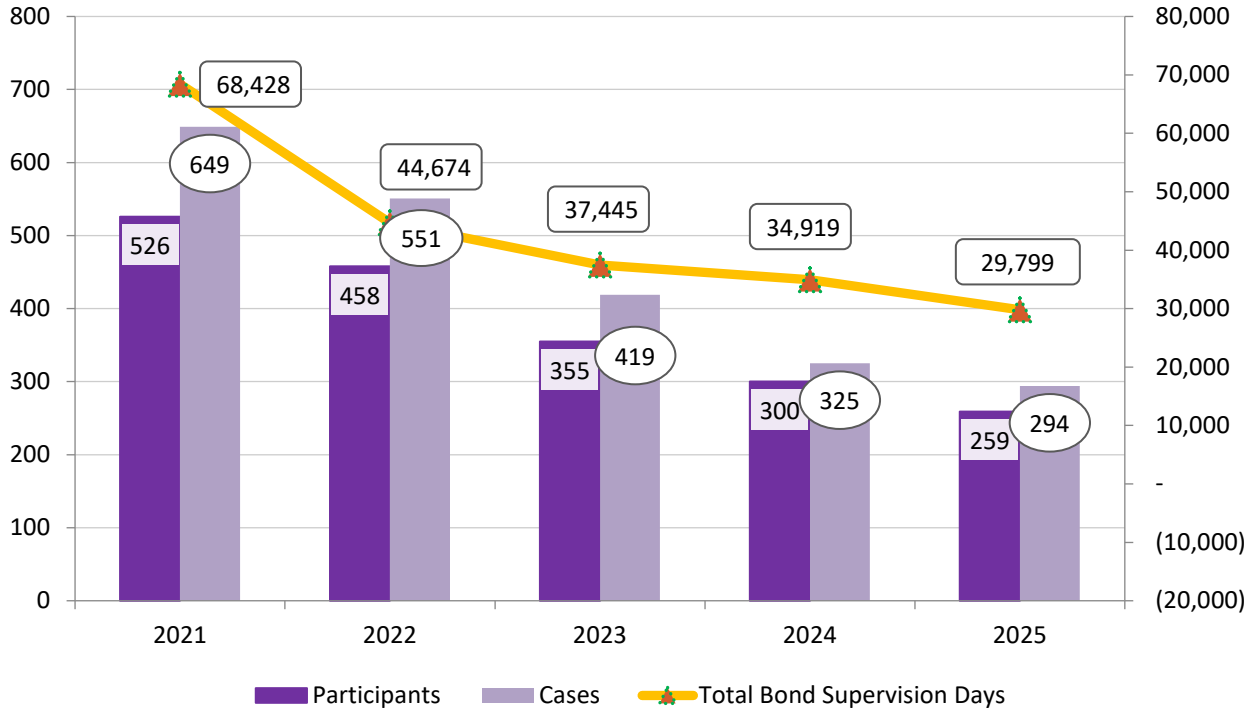

Pretrial release can be ordered under the supervision of Adult Court Services. Defendants on bond supervision report at least once per week to ACS either by phone, in person, or through a smart-phone ap. At this time, they provide updated information regarding employment, contact information (telephone number and address), attorney status, and next court appearance date. Defendants who do not report as directed or who are found to be in violation of their bond conditions are reported by ACS to the court and are subject to revocation.

For administrative purposes, the bond supervision population does not include pre-disposition defendants who are electronically monitored by ACS. Those defendants are included in the home detention/electronic monitoring population.

ACS gathers data by both the defendant's Boone County Jail release date and their first ACS check in date. Defendants do not always report immediately upon release from jail. Reasons for delay can include a release time outside of regular business hours, the existence of outstanding warrants or holds that transfer the defendant directly to the custody of another jurisdiction, immediate placement in a residential treatment program, or transfer to a hospital for medical treatment.

Bond Supervision: Participants, Cases, Total Days

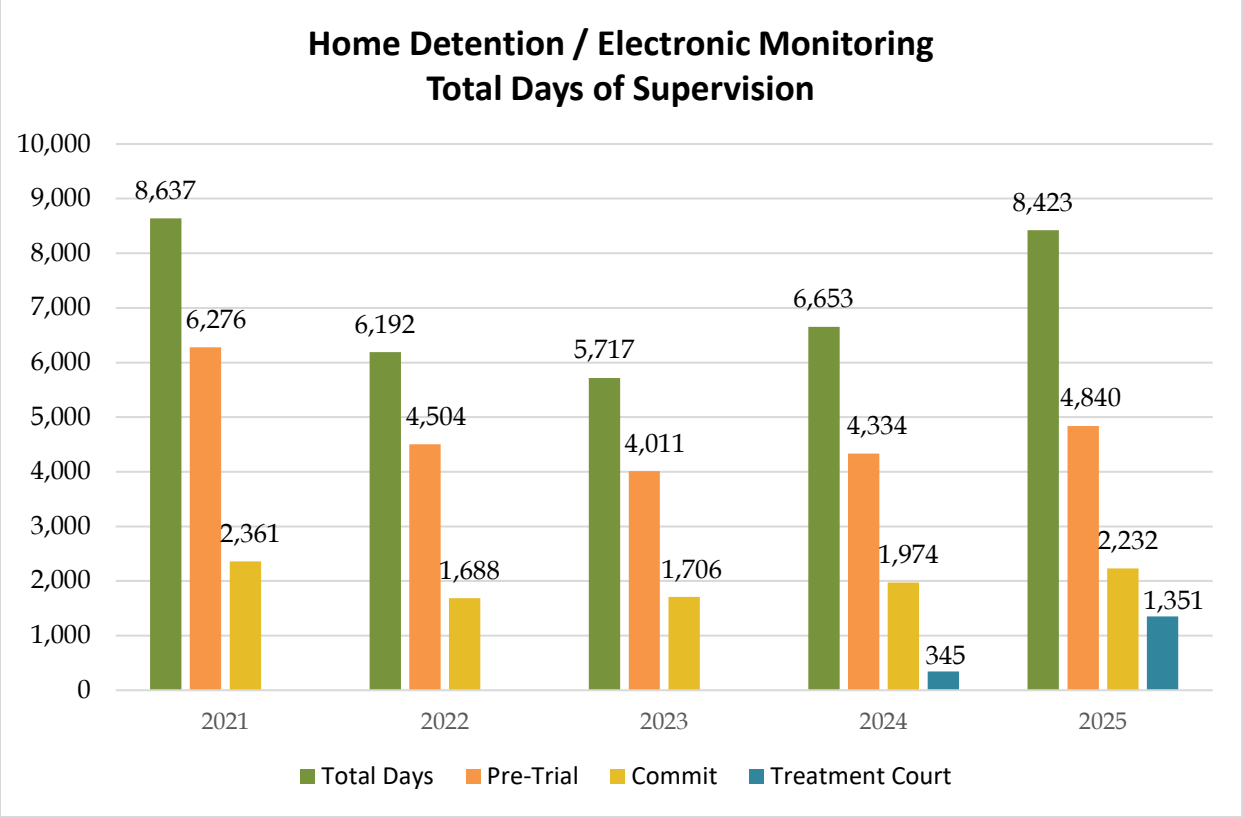

The bond supervision program totaled 29,799 days of supervision in 2025, equating to an average of 81 participants per day.

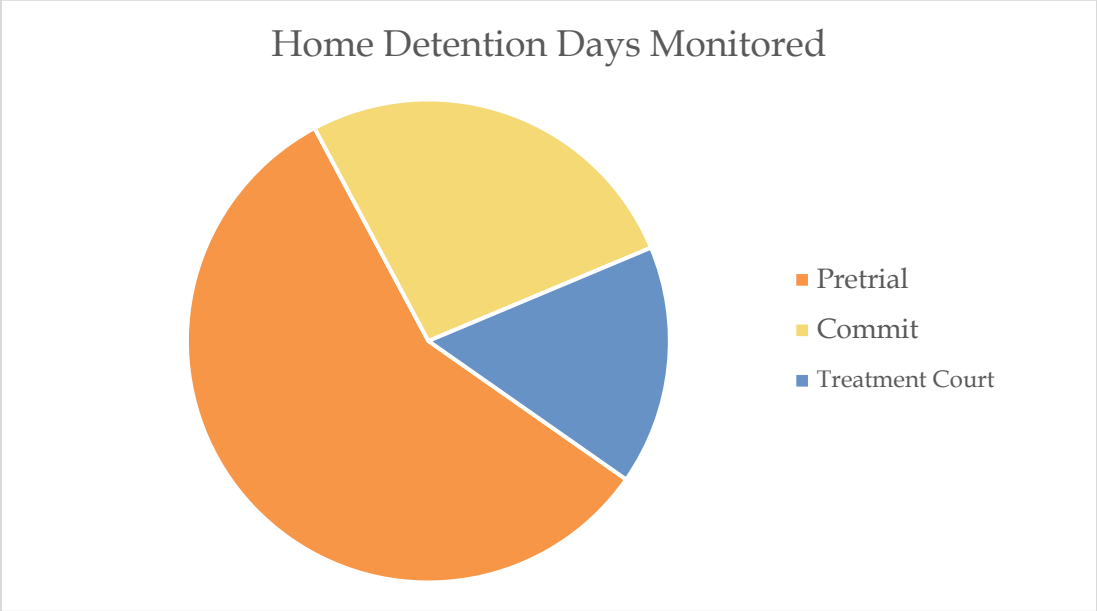

HOME DETENTION / ELECTRONIC MONITORING PROGRAM

ACS home detention is an intensive supervision program that utilizes electronic monitoring equipment to assist in ensuring compliance. Defendants participate in lieu of serving a jail sentence or as a condition of bond. In 2024, Treatment Court began utilizing ACS for home detention monitoring.

All participants serving commit sentences, and many pretrial participants, are electronically monitored 24 hours a day and follow a pre-set schedule. ACS utilizes a variety of monitoring equipment and selects the most appropriate type for the situation. Depending on the equipment used, participants can be monitored when they enter and leave their residence, if they enter or leave specific locations or areas, and if they consume alcohol. One court services officer is on call at all times to monitor and respond to alerts and issues that require immediate action.

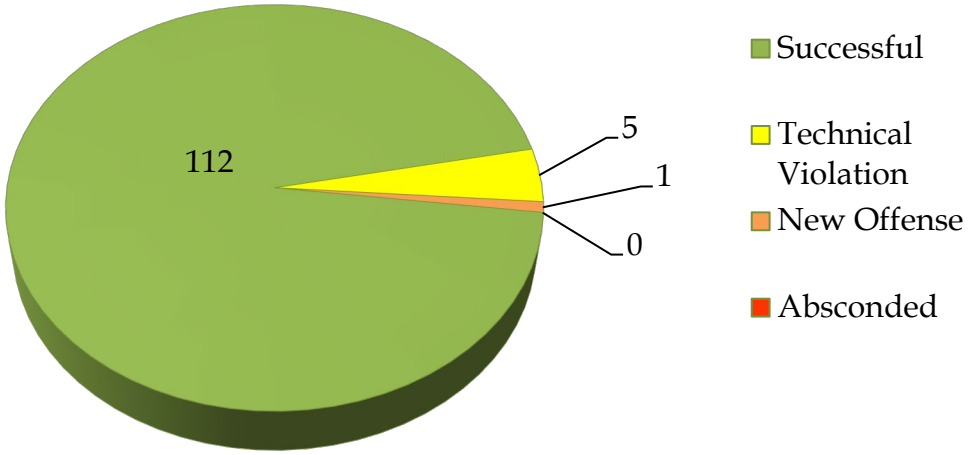

The ACS supervised home detention/electronic monitoring program averaged 23 participants per day with a total of 8,423 days monitored in 2025. At $49.00 per day this could represent a savings of $406,651.

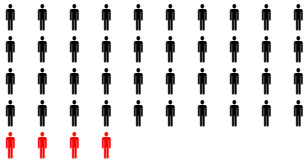

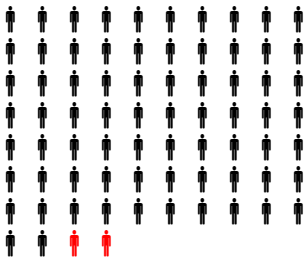

Of the home detention ACS monitored in 2025, pretrial cases made up 57%, commit sentences made up 26% and treatment court sanctions 17%. The participant total was 144 participants representing 177 cases.

Home Detention/Electronic Monitoring: Total Participant Outcomes

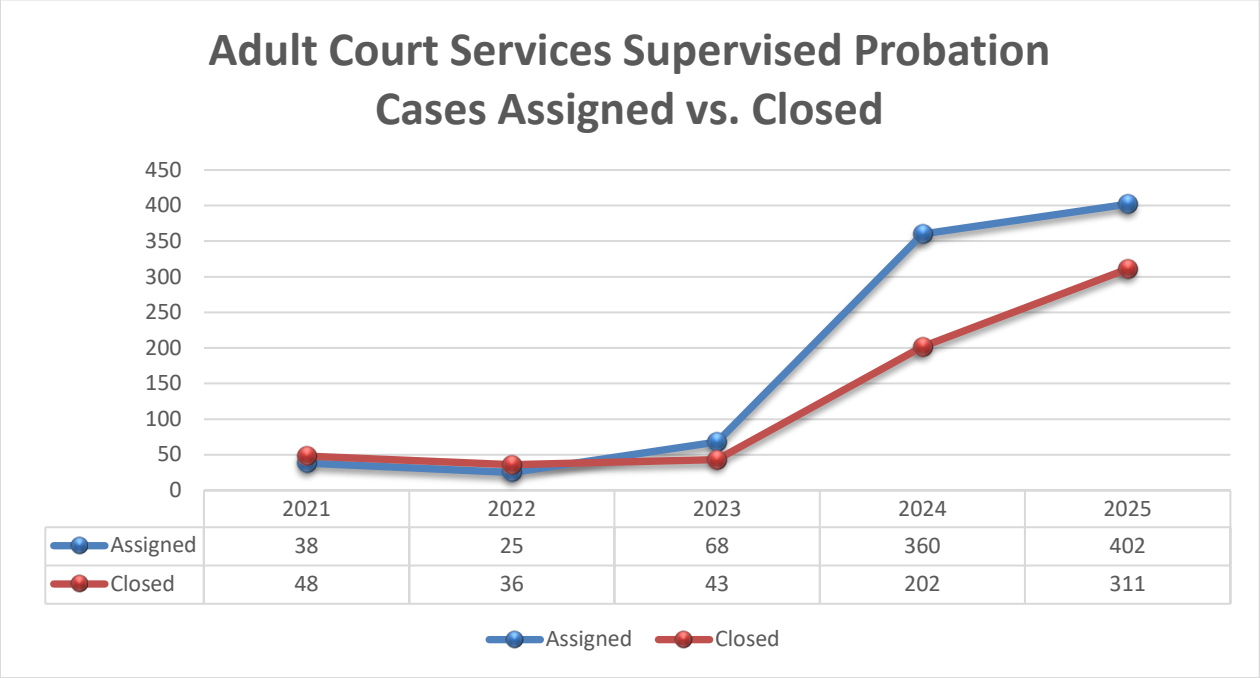

In 2025, Adult Court Services supervised 118 defendants on home detention with electronic monitoring. Of these, 95% were successful while on the home detention program. Home detention was revoked for 6 defendants during the year.

PRETRIAL		43 participants were on home detention as a condition of bond 1 revoked for committing a new offense 3 revoked for a technical violation
COMMIT		74 participants were on home detention in lieu of serving a sentence in jail 2 revoked for a technical violation

It should be noted; Treatment Court participants are not included in these measured outcomes. Adult Court Services' role is limited to monitoring and reporting electronic monitoring activity; all compliance decisions, violations, and revocation actions are determined by the Treatment Court.

Adult Court Services Supervised Probation

The ACS Supervised Probation program began in 2003 in response to statutory changes removing certain class A misdemeanors from state Probation and Parole supervision. In late 2023 Administrative Order 22-23 added specific B misdemeanor charges to the charges eligible for ACS Supervised Probation.

	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025
Assigned	38	25	68	360	402
Closed	48	36	43	202	311

Of the 402 cases assigned ACS Probation during this time frame, 81% were for alcohol-related charges.

These probation cases include: DWI 1st, DWI prior, leaving the scene, driving while revoked or suspended and stealing,

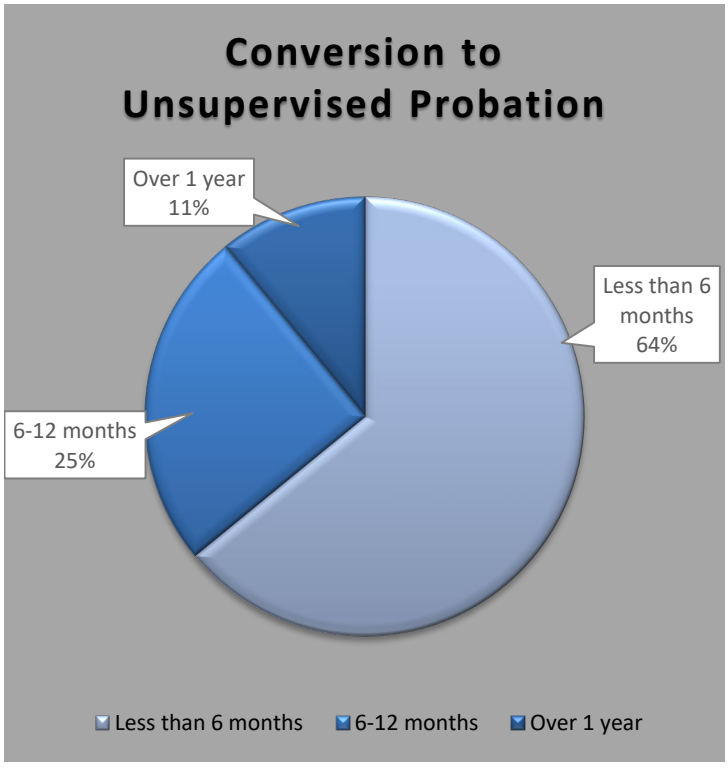

In 2025, defendants served 73,849 days on ACS supervised probation cases. The data reflected in the chart above excludes time in which an active warrant for probation violation exists.

When defendants complete assigned conditions of probation they are removed from active supervision and their probation is converted by ACS to unsupervised for the remainder of the two years.

Throughout 2025, there were 311 cases released from probation of which 95% were successfully completed. A probation case is closed as successful when all special conditions have been completed and the supervision status was amended to unsupervised.

The chart to the right shows the length of time the participant was on supervised probation. Only 13% of cases the defendants took longer than 6 months to be converted to unsupervised probation.

COMMUNITY SERVICE WORK

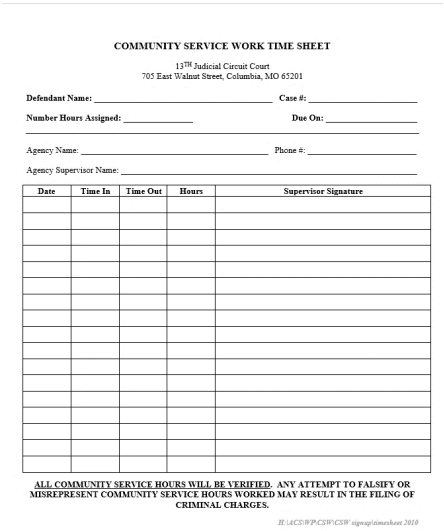

Community Service Work (CSW) recompenses the community for the harm caused to it by criminal acts. ACS only supervises CSW ordered as a condition of ACS Supervised Probation

CSW may only be performed at a qualified, not-for-profit and tax-exempt agency. Tax exempt means the agency has either an IRS tax exemption letter or a Missouri sales tax exemption letter. This and all other CSW policies are explained at the outset to each program participant. ACS's goal is to maximize successful outcomes.

In 2025, 3,906 hours of CSW were completed under ACS supervision. At the standardized $20 per hour rate used by the court to value CSW hours, this represents a $78,120 return to the community through participating not-for-profit agencies.
